DOWNING A COMBINE.

Evidence of the Packers' Trust Will Go to a Grand Jury Chicago, Nov. 7.—The alleged beef com-bine of Chicago packers is not being left to slumber by the United States Government officials.

Charges were first made in New York Charges were first made in New York and later reiterated by Secretary Mor-ton, who preferred formal charges with Attorney General Harmon, and he in turn referred them, with Secretary Morton's letter, to Gen. John C. Black, United States district attorney at Chicago. Gen. Black was unable to secure evi-dence to put to the recent Federal grand jury.

The Pederal authorities at Washing-ton, realizing that considerable work would have to be done to gather the evidence, sent several agents to Chicago, who have been engaged for some time in running down the proofs of the alleged combine. It is saul they have finished their work. The result of it cannot be presented before December, when there will be another grand large.

Bennett talks interestingly of his stay of nearly a year among the red men. From his point of view they are neither the flends of the average army officer, or the injured angels of the missionaries, but a very decent set of people, among whom there are good and bad, after the fashion of the world over.

It is an interesting fact that Mr. Bennett's report, which is on file at the Interior December 1. report, which is on file at the Interior De report, which is on file at the Interior Department, was written by a full-blooded Indian, who rejoices in the name of John P. Young. The story of how this Indian scribe came into possession of this very civilized name is interesting enough to be told. Ten days or so after the birth of a papoose its grandmother comes into the room and calls it some such cuphonious cognomen as Yellow Feather or Rattlesnake. This especiallittle red baby was dibbed by the old dame Young Bull. When Young Bull grew up, and against the wishes of his parents, went to the school on the reservation he was ambitious to have a name similar to those of the white man, so he dropped the Bull and called himself John Young, and later on, as he grew more advanced in civilized ways, he added the initial "P." the altogether stylish name by which this learned Indian is known all over the Northwest.
